SUPREME COURT AGAIN UPHOLDS BANK STOCK TAX

REHEARING OF HARTFORD CASE DENIED; MILWAUKEE ATTORNEY DISBARRED; CONVICTION OF SHIELDS AFFIRMED

(By Associated Press)

Madison, June 22—The Wisconsin supreme court today denied a motion for rehearing in the Hartford bank case. The decision sustains the court's former opinion holding the present system of taxing banks in Wisconsin to be constitutional and valid.

The decision, which has particular significance in view of Governor Blaine's veto of a bill to place bank taxation upon an income basis, means that the case will be carried to the United States supreme court, according to previous assertions by counsel for the bank.

The rehearing denied by the court today, was asked of the state tribunal after four of the seven members of the court rendered a majority opinion upholding the collection of more than $2,000 in taxes by the city of Hartford, after the circuit court ruled that the taxes were illegally collected.

Richter Is Disbarred

Madison, June 22—Arthur W. Richter, Milwaukee attorney, was disbarred by the Wisconsin supreme court today.

The Wisconsin supreme court's action on its own initiative in starting disbarment proceedings against Arwaukee attorney, was an unusual step.

Richter was accused of making an improper plea in his defense against a suit brought by his former housekeeper, Mrs. Clara Stark for payment for her services. She was awarded the claim in the circuit court of Milwaukee county and the verdict was upheld in the supreme court, which then retained the records for "disciplinary" action.

Marriage Promise Void

The plea upon which the court started its action was that the services were rendered pursuant to an illegal contract. Richter told the court that he did not intend to imply that the relations between the housekeeper and himself were illegal but that the contract was illegal. The contract, he said, was an agreement to marry, and was void because he was married at the time.

Conviction Is Affirmed

Madison, June 22—Conviction of George Shields, former night watchman at Boscobel, on a charge of assault in connection with a Ku Klux Klan parade last August, was upheld by the supreme court today.

The court held there was sufficient evidence to take the question whether he was guilty of assault to the jury, and that its verdict cannot be disturbed. Speaking of the Ku Klux Klan, the court said:

"It cannot be doubted that the public demands of this order excite resentment on the part of those classes of our citizens whose Americanism the principles of the organization condemn, but experience in our state does not indicate that such resentment, justly entertained, prompts reprisal by action of violence or leads to a tumultuous breach of peace. This fact testifies most creditably to the self respect of our citizens who are under the Ku Klux Klan proscription."

Claimed Parade Orderly

Counsel for Shields suggested to the court that "to sustain conviction for an act committed while in the performance of his regular duties and under circumstances as aggravated as appear in this case "would be to establish a precedent which might cause every peace officer to hesitate in the performance of his duties and believe that unless he approached strange bodies or mobs apologetically he would be held liable.

On the other hand, the evidence showed Shields guilty of the charge of assault, the state contended. The assault upon the watchman was not unjustifiable nor unprovoked, it was added, and "Shields was evidently maliciously interfering with a lawful and orderly conducted parade."

BERNARD GRANT KILLED IN JAIL

CHICAGO YOUTH, UNDER SENTENCE TO HANG FOR MURDER, FATALLY STABBED BY COMPANION IN CRIME

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, June 22—Bernard Grant, under sentence to be hanged on August 14 and in whose behalf thousands of persons had signed petitions asking clemency, died today as the result of stab wounds inflicted by his fellow prisoner, Walter Krauser, under sentence to hang with Grant for the same murder.

Twice Given Reprieve

Krauser had obtaind a new trial, but the state supreme court had refused a new trial in Grant's case. As a result, Governor Small reprieved Grant twice to await Krauser's second trial. The governor apparently agreed with Grant's lawyer that should Krauser escape death by a second trial it would appear unjust to hang Grant.

The pair was convicted of killing Policeman Ralph Sauders in 1922, and both were sentenced to be hanged.

Grant's hair turned gray in jail during his long incarceration.

Stabbed With Pocket Knife

Krauser's case was to be retried this week. Grant, who was 19 years old when charged with murder, and Krauser were unfriendly in the jail. On Saturday during an exercise period Krauser produced a pocket knife and stabbed Grant five times in the back and chest.

Krauser was put into solitary confinement in the county jail and Grant was taken to the house of correction hospital. Grant's parents are poor and his father a cripple.

Set Fire To Old Paper Mill At South Side

Most of the remains of the old Centralia Pulp and Paper mill were destroyed by fire this morning by order of Nepco mill officials who ordered the old mill demolished in order to make room for the erection of the new power pant addition that is to be built at the South Side. After setting fire to the remains the flames reached such proportions that the local fire department was asked to stand by and be ready to give aid if the fire got beyond control. One truck from the local department was sent down and after enough of the debris had been burned off this truck and the Port Edwards truck extinguished the fire.

The old Centralia mill was one of the oldest on the Wisconsin river, but since it was almost totally destroyed by fire in May 1912, the remains had not been used.

New York Girl Sentenced for Murder of Suitor

(By Associated Press)

New York, June 22—From five to fifteen years confinement in Auburn prison was the sentence imposed today upon Dorothy Perkins, charged with killing Thomas Templeton, Jersey City war veteran and her suitor.

Nels Johnson Is Dying After Attempt At Suicide

Nels Johnson was reported dying at his home on Wylie street this afternoon from the effects of a revolver shot, inflicted by himself in an attempt at suicide shortly before noon. Despondency because of ill health, was said to be the cause of his action.

Mr. Johnson was sitting in his bedroom, alone, when he fired the shot, but he was immediately discovered and a local physician and police officers were summoned. It was found that while he had apparently intended the bullet to reach the heart he had aimed low, and received the wound in the abdomen. Chief of Police Payne took possession of the revolver, which was of 32 calibre.

The victim remained conscious for some time after firing the shot, and in conversation with Chief Payne and others, although suffering intensely, declared that it was his hope that he would die. The physician who attended him said that there was no chance for his recovery.

Mr. Johnson, who is about 60 years of age, has been in poor health for a long time and recently, it is said, consulted specialists in Green Bay with a view to having an operation performed. He was told, however, that nothing could be done for him. Despondency resulting from this information, and desire to rid himself of the pain which he had suffered for several months brought about his decision to kill himself, it is believed. That he had planned the suicide is indicated by the fact that a short time before he shot himself he called upon a number of neighbors and said good-bye, intimating that he might not see them again.

Mr. Johnson has a wife and a number of small children, as well as several older children by a previous marriage.

Crews Will Buck Wind On Hudson

(By Associated Press)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22—A warm southwest wind sprang up at noon today and bucking against an outgoing tide made the Hudson river a trifle rough as the crews of seven universitie rested in their boathouses for the twenty-eighth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association late today. Overhead, however the weather was ideal.

In attempting to enter the Pennsylvania yearling junior varsity shell this morning, one of the Quakers put his foot through the side and rendered the boat unfit for use. Another hole was ripped inside in endeavoring to place the shell back in the boat house. An auxiliary shell is available for the Quakers' use, however.

Syracuse, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania were favored in the two-mile yearling event

The first of the junior varsity events is scheduled for 4 o'clock eastern standard time.

The freshman race is due to start at 4:45 o'clock, while the varsity eights are to go at 5:15. If the weather or water is unfavorable, the events will be postponed until conditions become more satisfactory.

The crews entered in the varsity events are Pennsylvania, Cornell, Navy, Columbia, Washington, Syracuse and Wisconsin.

TWO-DAY HOUSE WARMING OPENS ENLARGED HOTEL

PEOPLE OF COMMUNITY JOIN WITH MANAGER DANIELS TONIGHT AND TUESDAY IN CELEBRATING EVENT

These are house-warming days at the Hotel Witter for this evening and Tuesday townspeople will help Lester P. Daniels celebrate the opening of his new addition and visit his hotel. This afternoon and Tuesday afternoon have been set aside for inspection of the new features and big improvements made by Mr. Daniels during the past six months.

First Function Tonight

This evening will witness the first of a series of two special functions which will commemorate the opening of the hotel commencing with dinner in the main dining room at 7 o'clock. A special menu, special musical selections and several artist entertainers will furnish an excellent program. The evening will be completed with a dance in the new Rose Room of the hotel, the elaborate banquet and ball room. On Tuesday evening the same program will be repeated. A division was made to permit a large group to attend as it was impossible to accommodate all who wished to attend in one evening.

Testimonial to Mr. Daniels

The opening events will permit the people of the city and community to inspect the new Witter Hotel. Many have realized that important developments have been going on but few comprehend the amount of money expended in the varied and desirable improvements and the elaborateness of the new features added to the hostelry. The social events were designed by the committee as a testimonial to Mr. Daniels and to show appreciation for the development of an important institution to the city.

Large Investment

In all over $60,000 was invested by Mr. Daniels to bring the Witter up to a position of leadership in the hotel field in Wisconsin. Thirty new rooms have been added, all with the latest conveniences. Many of the rooms in the main building have been remodelled. The front has been changed, new store buildings been built. A new lobby, an attractive sun porch, a new banquet hall with fine ball room floor has been added and general improvements have made the house very attractive.

Has Made Success

Mr. Daniels, the proprietor and manager, came to Wisconsin Rapids four and one half years ago buying the Witter from D. J. Gerow. In that time he has increased the business very materially and has spent much of his money and time in the development of the house as well as the business. For several years he was a traveling man himself and his experience told him what the traveling man wants in the way of accomodations and service and it has been his aim to render that type of service at all times. That he has interpreted the needs and comforts of the traveling public correctly is easily seen in the development of the Witter under his ownership, which brought about the fine new addition to the hotel and the other big improvements.

Is Prominent Business Man

Mr. Daniels is one of the city's best boosters. He is a ceaseless worker in the interests of the city in his many private benefactions as well as in his position as president of the Chamber of Commerce. All people of the community realize that he has shown his interests in the welfare of the city by his large investment in his hotel property and he enjoys the confidence and well wishes of the entire community in his project.

Pays Fine and Costs For Driving Car While Drunk

Charged with operating a car while in an intoxicated condition, Emil Kuhn, this city, paid a fine and costs in Judge W. H. Getts' court this morning. Kuhn, it is alleged by the police, was driving his car on Eighth street Saturday and at the junction of Eighth and Oak ran into a car driven by Arthur Garbrecht. After colliding with this car residents of the neighborhood telephoned police who arrived at the scene just in time to see Kuhn's car collide with another car driven by Seth Canning, this city.

Another accident occurred this morning at the junction of Third and Grand avenues when a car driven by Otto Gaupp, Nekoosa, ran into a lamp post on the corner knocking the top off the post and then into the drinking fountain, damaging that. Dr. R. W. Andrae, of Plainfield was knocked down by the car but not seriously hurt.

No charges were placed against Gaupp as the police were convinced that the collisions were purely accidental.

Science Inspires Search For Truth Declares Birge

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., June 22.—Science is teaching men to look for a progressive revelation and to expect from nature new truth which will call for change and reorganization of former truth, President E. A. Birge, told members of the 1925 graduating class of the University of Wisconsin in the annual baccalaureate address here Sunday.

The president pictured science as a mode of thought which men long neglected in search for truth, but which was referred to in the biblical parable of the mustard seed, where, in response to the question "whereunto shall we liken the Kingdom of God" came the answer "like a mustard seed, when it is sown, it groweth up."

Reveals Man's Place in World

"Through science," President Birge said, "man in important respects is learning not to correct his knowledge, but what is more significant, to reverse his feelings, his attitude toward the work of the past. So far from attempting to detach himself from the larger world and to look at himself as in some way independent of it, man is coming to see that he is himself in a very real sense, an integral part of the lesson that man is the son of God the Creator.

"In science we find a new revelation of the Kingdom of God, a revelation whose nature was foreshadowed in the parable of the mustard seed. This revelation is directed primarily to thinking rather than to conduct, and its immediate purpose is to enlarge knowledge.

"Science has already taken control of large and increasing areas of our daily life and conduct. In ways innumerable it is remodeling our government and thereby changing our actions. Along the lines of government, social organization and social conduct, science has found solutions for certain ethical prob-

Ladd Of North Dakota, LaFollette Supporter In Senate, Dies In Baltimore

(By Associated Press)

Baltimore, Md., June 22—Senator Edwin Fremont Ladd of North Dakota died here at 10:20 a. m. today.

Senator Ladd passed away quietly, retaining consciousness almost to the last. Mrs. Ladd arrived from Washington an hour before the end came, and was at the bedside with Milton, one of the sons, who is studying law in George Washington university, and his daughter, Virginia, who attends high school in Washington. Senator Ladd, who apparently realized the end was nearing, arose to greet them when they entered his room. The end came rapidly after their arrival.

Blow to Progressives

Washington, June 22—With the passing of Senator Ladd the republican insurgent bloc in the senate suffered its second overwhelming loss within four days.

By coincidence the death of the North Dakotan occurred on the day of the burial of Senator La Follette whose policy he had followed on so many occasions. Together they had gone through the 1924 independent campaign against the constituted national ticket of their party, and together they later were read out of the party by the republican organization of the senate.

Still another member of the dwindling La Follette bloc, Senator Brookhart of Iowa, has an election contest pending against him, and may be deprived of a senate seat in the next session.

Noted As Worker

The decision of the senate republican regulars to shear La Follette followers of committee rank cost Senator Ladd the chairmanship of one of the most important senate committees, that of public lands, as head of which he presided over a part of the senate Teapot Dome investigation

Mr. Ladd was regarded by his colleagues as one of the hardest workers in the senate. His wide knowledge of public questions won him respect, and although he did not often take a hand in debate on the floor, he had a very active part in the more arduous task of shaping legislation in committees.

Testimony Of Faiman Again Under Attack

Chicago, June 22.—The defense in the William Shepherd murder trial today further attacked the testimony and character of the state's star witness, Charles C Faiman.

Mrs. Lulu H. Rhubell, for two months business manager of Faiman's school the National University of Sciences, testified she would not believe Faiman on oath, that she never saw a letter from Shepherd to Faiman although she kept the files, and that she never had seen Shepherd at Faiman's school.

Faiman paid her salary with four checks which were returned to her, Mrs. Rhubell said. She admitted that she ran down a fire escape when state's attorney detectives visited her home in connection with the Shepherd trial because she did not want any further publicity. She also admitted she had been paid $20 weekly by the defense.

She also was arrested and fined recently for disorderly conduct, she admitted under cross examination, but said her arrest was caused by a rental agent who wanted to get her apartment.

Dr. John Fischer, head of the Fischer laboratory, was the next witness, qualifying as an expert bacteriologist.

Marshfield Girl Tries Suicide at Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis.—Frieda Mouritz, 18, who was found lying on a parkway in Washington highlands, Wauwatosa, Saturday and refused to tell where she lived, finally was identified late Saturday as a Marshfield girl who had been living with her sister, Mrs. Ralph Splitt, 50 Third-ninth St.

The girl had taken poison and was found by Sergt. Dan Statz of the Wauwatosa police. She said circumstances forced her to take poison. So far as police can learn, she has not been in any trouble. A note in her handwriting was found, reading: "Dear Paul—Forgive me for what I am doing. Do not take your own life. Frieda."

Car Badly Damaged In Collision Saturday P. M.

Crashing into a Ford car owned by Wiliam Zager, which was parked along side of the road while the driver was preparing to repair his lights, a car driven by Art Lambert, this city, was quite badly damaged when it careened across a ditch and into a field near Seneca Corners, Saturday evening shortly after nine o'clock. Lambert stated after the accident that he was unable to see Zager's car until he was almost upon it owing to the fact that it carried no lights.

The body of the Lambert car, the fenders and two of the wheels were badly damaged in the crash. None of the occupants of the two cars were injured

STATE PAYS ITS FINAL TRIBUTE TO DEAD LEADER

SENATOR'S LIFE AN INSPIRATION TO CITIZENS OF WISCONSIN, MINISTER SAYS IN FUNERAL ORATION

(By Associated Press)

Madison, June 22—Robert Marion La Follette was returned today to the soil of the state which gave him birth.

The last services for him were of simplicity in keeping of the life he had lived. While the state claimed him to the last, it was the plain people to whose cause he had devoted his all that gathered to show reverence to his memory.

The services were conducted in the rotunda of the state capitol, and interment was made in the family plot in Forest Hill cemetery beside the graves of the senator's father and mother.

Upon few men had Wisconsin bestowed higher honor in life, and perhaps to none had she given so impressive a tribute in death, and yet there was nothing of pomp and display, it was the simple outpouring of the people from high places and low, bowing in respect at a bier.

These people and the countless others who had followed the leadership of Senator La Follette were called upon by Dr. A. E. Hayden of Chicago in his eloquent funeral oration to dedicate themselves to the task of winning the future of democracy of which he said the senator had dreamed.

Gave Life to People

"To be true to the vision as he was true," said Dr. Hayden, "every individual shall have a fuller and freer opportunity for a satisfactory life. This will be to remember him truly and here in his presence still, we may dedicate ourselves to that task."

Describing the senator as a man fearless and incorruptible, Dr. Hayden declared that with his head "above the murk of selfishness and greed, his feet firmly planted in the thickness of fact, he gave his life to make government the servant of human values in a new and different age.

"It was his human heart that kept him close with the life problems of his fellow men. Among those who bowed in sincerest devotion today are those for whom he fought in other years, the seamen, the toilers, men of hard hands and faces marked by the scars of old wars.

"We shall remember him as a leader of sublime courage. He has built himself into the life of America, and into the structure of the world."

During the funeral service the casket rested into the spot where yesterday it lay in state. A single American flag covered it and in the background was a mass of palms and floral tributes relieving the drab of the marble columns which flanked the bier.

Notables Crowd Capitol

The heavy marble balustrade encircling the well of the rotunda was covered with wreaths and sprays of flowers. There were officials from the United States senate, the Wisconsin legislature, labor, fraternal, educational and political organizations and a host of individuals.

Joining the family on the main floor of the rotunda were the active and honorary pall bearers, including the congressional delegation, members of the state legislature and state officials. Others were seated or found places in three of the main galleries. The overflow was cared for as far as might be in the well below.

The choir was in the east gallery over the temporary altar.

Bearing with great fortitude still the supreme trial of her life, Mrs. La Follette entered the funeral chamber between her sons, Robert, jr., and Phillip, followed by two daughters and other members of the immediate family. They were seated to the right of the altar with the congressional delegation to the left.

The soft strains of the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" floated from an organ in an overhanging recess marking the opening of the services. The choir took up the familiar words as a hush descended upon the hundreds within the capitol.

Before his funeral oration, Dr. Hayden read the burial service of the Unitarian church. The singing of the hymn "Abide With Me" by the choir, and "America" by the choir and audience, and the service was ended.

Thousands View Body

Upon arrival in Madison Saturday afternoon the casket containing the body was placed in the reception room of the state capitol, where it remained under an honor guard until Sunday noon, when it was laid in state in the rotunda of the statehouse. The swelling crowd of mourners that reached Madison by Sunday passed in an endless stream through the corridor and looked upon the

SESSION'S WORK NEARING FINISH

ONLY ELEVEN BILLS REMAIN IN LEGISLATURE FOR FINAL DISPOSITION; VETOES NUMEROUS

Madison, Wis., June 22—Eleven bills, nearly all of them buffeted between assembly and senate by committees on conference of each house, are all that remains pending of the nearly 1,200 measures introduced in the 1925 session of the Wisconsin legislature.

The bills are known as the "wrangle" measures of the closing days of the legislative session. Disputes arose over amendments which necessitated the appointment of conference committees in attempts to smooth out the difficulties or compromise the issues.

Must Await Governor

Tomorrow may be the last day of active work in the legislature, although the law making body cannot adjourn sine die until the governor has had time to pass on all bills which have run a successful course through the legislature.

Since nearly half of the members of the legislature have departed for their homes and will not return for the last days of the session, it is not likely that any bill will pass over the objections of Governor Blaine.

The 1925 session was remarkable for the number of vetoes of the executive, more than thirty having met such fate. More than 300 bills were enacted into law.

Honor Senator La Follette

All offices in the Wisconsin statehouse were closed to business today as a mark of respect to the late Senator Robert M. La Follette.

All administrative departments in the capitol were prepared to close the entire day, according to an announcement by Governor Blaine.

The governor also advised that the respective houses of the legislature would convene without the transaction of any legislative business for the purpose of making their own special plans in connection with participation in the funeral services.

The supreme court met only to hand down its usual decisions and to admit to the bar graduates of the Law school of the Uniyersity of Wisconsin, after which it will adjourn.

The regular meeting of the University of Wisconsin board of regents, scheduled to open today, has been deferred until tomorrow out of respect to Senator La Follette. The regents will meet most of this week the principal business being preparation of the budget for next year.

Crop Conditions Below Normal First of Month

Crop conditions in Wood county on June 1 were about the same as for Wisconsin as a whole, according to the monthly report of the Wisconsin Crop and Livestock Reporter, which shows that tame hay, pastures, oats, barley and rye were all materially below average on that date. In Wood county conditions were as follows: Tame hay, 77 per cent of normal; pasture, 73; oats, 87; barley, 75; rye, 79. These percentages are a fair approximation of the situation throughout the central part of the state, except that in Adams and Juneau counties tame hay and pastures were only 60 per cent or less of normal, while in Adams and Green Lake counties rye was less than 60 per cent of normal.

As "Fighting Bob" Passed On

Senator Robert M. La Follette's body is taken from Washington to lie in state in his home city, Madison, Wis. This picture was taken at the capitol as the casket was being put on the train.

Friend And Neighbor Of Senator Pays Him Tribute

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., June 22—Although known as a fighter politically, Senator Robert M. LaFollette was anything but a quarrelsome man in private life, according to C. B. Ballard, friend and neighbor of the senator for years.

"I knew him as a neighbor, father and husband," Mr. Ballard said, "and never have I seen a married couple who had lived together so long and raised a family that were constantly such pals and lovers. They would talk over public questions together, thrash out the problems and usually agreed on the same view point. It was the same with his boys and girls, and I have always considered them a model family."

Mr. Ballard related many experiences and conversations with Senator La Follette which pictured his character in private life.

"Golf links bordered his farm here," Mr. Ballard said, "and quite frequently golfers would climb his fenses and tramp his crops in search of missing balls. Although the senator did not belong to the club, he staunchly refused to complain, and more than that he would not put up "no trespassing" or other similar signs.

"When we were discussing the subject one day, he said to me 'Clint, you know they are neighbors and we don't want to quarrel with them. I guess there will be plenty of crops even if they do tramp some down'."

"One of his farm tenants some years ago sold off some of the senator's personal property during his absence on one occasion. When Mr. La Follette returned, he would not do anything about it and said to me 'Well, I guess the poor fellow needed the money more than I'". He was ever that way, allowing other people to take advantage of him, but should these same people pick on a friend in his presence, he would stick up for him to the last ditch. In school he was the same way, always taking the part of the other fellow."

"'I once said to him, 'Bob you don't have to live as you do, paying interest rates on a mortgage, and at times having to watch your expenditures. You could be well off, if you would.' 'Oh yes,' he said, 'I've had plenty of opportunity to work for large Eastern railroads as an attorney, virtually naming my own salary if I'd give up politics.'"

"During the war, after mountains of criticism had been heaped upon him, he finally instructed his attorneys to start a libel suit for $100,000 against two of the local papers then in existence. After some litigation, the papers agreed to settle for $50,000 on condition the suits be dropped. Mr. La Follette's attorney advised him to take the settlement and suggested that they could go to papers all over the country that had libeled him and make them settle or face a law suit. The senator refused the suggestion and refused the $50,000 offered him.

"'I don't want their money', he said, 'all I want is for them to leave me alone'. He said to me, 'I talked it over with mother and we decided not to take the money'. When I told him that there was really nothing wrong in taking it, he replied 'Well, I suppose there isn't, but I couldn't take it. When they lay me away, I don't expect to leave much property, but I want to leave a name that my family and my friends won't be ashamed of and won't have to apologize for. I never want it said that Bob La Follette ever accepted a dollar and ever got anything that he didn't honestly earn!'"

"When the senator was at his farm, and silo or threshing crews were at work there, he always insisted that he have his picture taken with them. He was very proud of those pictures and was always glad that his neighbors called him 'Bob'.

"Gottlieb Meish, an old neighbor of Senator La Follette once said to me, "I've known Bob since he was a youngster and nobody ever has been able to buy him, nobody ever been able to scare him, and they couldn't fool him'.

"Outside of my own two boys, I loved him more than any living man and I don't think God ever made a better man. He'd never wrong anyone intentionally, if he'd have ever so good a chance to do it."

lems and has created other new ones.

Gives Glimpse of Universe

"Men's eyes are turning to the coming day, to a developing world as never before. Science inevitably looks to the present and the future and at the same time teaches us that as the past was not perfect, so we, lacking the future, are also far from perfect.

"Another great spiritual lesson of science is that through it there has been given at least a glimpse of the eternal evolution of the universe—undisturbed, unhurried, certain—from which in due time issued both world and man. So the words the 'Kingdom of God' have gained a new significance for us, a larger meaning, as we begin not only to see its movement but also to feel in it the rule and power of a life stirring and asserting itself in ourselves and in all that is about us. Long ago this came to faith. Now it is being disclosed to vision and challenging new faith.

Science Tool of Man

"The evolution of the universe is the freedom of God, and there is no larger freedom than is. This movement in its progress and its results is the Glory of God, and there is no other glory. We as his children are born of this glory and we may enter into its liberty. This is the lesson long desired in vain, toward which the teaching of recent centuries has been definitely moving, this the revelation whose half understood beginnings God's messengers are reading today."

President Birge sought to reconcile science with religion and to show that science was a tool through which man could get closer to the real truths of existence, as expressed in religion.

Correct Dress Shows You Believe In Yourself—So Will Others Believe in You —that every suit we carry in stock has two pair of pants and that every price we quote in our advertisements is the price of good woolen, stylish suits with two pair of trousers.

—that Abel's two-pant suits have built a reputation for themselves in two months time that is enviable——all because every suit Abel buys must be an exceptional good value and that new shipments are received every week insuring the very latest styles.

—that the reason Abel can give such good values is because he has moderate rent, prefers small profit and quick turnover to large profit and slow turn-over, has a small store which only requires two men to operate making low overhead.

—that all of these things are contributing factors to making good clothes value——the kind of clothes value that Frank Abel has been giving the people of this community since the first day he opened his doors.

—do you realize that unless you have been in to see the fine suit and accessory values in store for you here that you are passing up an opportunity to save money on your every clothing need.

The Prime Function of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)

A bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States says: "The function of business is to provide for the material needs of mankind and to increase the wealth of the world and the value and happiness of life.". These words might have been written to describe the ideals animating the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Among the more important "material needs" of society are the products of petroleum. When progress ushered in the industrial era, animal and vegetable oils were the only lubricants available and the quantity of these was insufficient to permit unlimited expansion.

Petroleum was discovered just when it was needed to supply the enormous quantities of lubricants required by this mechanical age.

The importance of gasoline as a servant of society came with the invention of the internal combustion engine and its application to the automobile. This product is now indispensable.

It is because the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to produce gasoline in ever-increasing quantities that it has been able to render its greatest service in "increasing the wealth of the world and the value and happiness of life."

Where twenty years ago only a handful of automobiles were in operation, today there are 17¼ millions in service.

The constant demand for gasoline has outstripped the increase in the production of crude oil.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has led the way in bridging this gap. It has accomplished this through such inventions as the Burton Cracking Process; through vision in anticipating future needs, and through ability to create an organization capable of functioning economically and efficiently under the stress of rapidly changing conditions.

The prime function of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is to provide society with a dependable service of oil products to meet its material needs and to increase the sum total of wealth available to the common good.

This Company takes profound pride in rendering this service and it believes that, in so serving, it deserves and earns the reasonable profits which are paid over to its stockholders in return for the use of the capital they have invested in the business.

Feel All Out of Sorts?
IS a constant, nagging backache spoiling your summer? Do you get up lame and stiff—feel tired all day long? Are you so nervous and worn-out you cannot rest or relax?
Look, then, to your kidneys! You cannot be well unless your kidneys properly filter the blood. Sluggish kidneys allow poisons to accumulate and upset the whole system. When this happens you are apt to suffer nagging backache, sharp twinges of pain, lameness, soreness and stiffness, dizzy spells and annoying kidney irregularities.
Help your kidneys with a tested stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are used and recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!
Here is Wisconsin Rapids Proof:
G. F. Bruderli, 974 Wisconsin St., says: "I can recommend Doan's Pills as being a good remedy, for I have used them on several occassions in the past with fine results. They are the best remedy I have ever used for backache and kidney trouble. I got Doan's at Daly's Drug Store and certainly have a high opinion of this remedy."

Punk's Bunk

Mike Ezekiel busted into our private sanctorium the other morning as excited as an old maid school teacher on her first slumming party in a wicked Chinatown.

He wants the state legislature to pass a law making it compulsive for all truck manufacturers to put sand boxes on all creamery tracks.

While traveling to Nekoosa the other day with a load of butter he got stalled on the concrete road and had to be pulled out.

..He says the day was so darn hot that the butter melted and greased the pavement and he couldn't get any traction.

An dthe worst part of it is after working hard all day getting the butter down to Nekoosa, he retired early that night and couldn't sleep on account of the mosquitoes.

They were so thick out home that he had to wear his winter woolens to bed with him to keep 'em from biting through.

They got too hot so he changed to something lighter and dashed out the light.

That fooled them for a while, but a little later they came back with a flock of lightning bugs leading the way and again found him and enjoyed a lunch a la carte.

His patience exhausted Mike put on the light, took off the screen and held a round-up and rodeo show in his room.

After he got 'em all in he sneaked a peg on the visitors and put on the screen and then slept out doors.

Tired as he was that night he says that it was nothing compared to one time when he was engineer on a big locomotive down in Mexico.

He had a Mexican for a fireman and another for a brakeman.

While pulling a freight train of 128 cars over one of the high divides one day he was having a hell of a job making the grade. At last he just got over and at the next station he saw the brakie and remarked what a hard time he had making the grade.

When the brakie told him that he knew it and that it was lucky he kept the brakes on or they would have skidded back down the grade Mike hit with one of his landlady's raised biscuits.

The fireman was a husky (he had to be, this was a forty-five wheel drive engine that was used to haul Mike's big cabbage down to the Panama exposition) and jumped Mike for putting his fellow countryman in canary land.

Heaving a second biscuit Mike knocked this one into the water tank and three minutes later he looked in his water gauge and saw the old boy standing on his head doing a shimmy dance.

Yes, that was a big engine.

X X X

Danny's new orchestra made its de butt down to the Moccasin creek pavilion the other night.

Some went to the dance to get a peek at the orchestra, but we observed several young ladies of the community who, evidently, went to the dance in order that the college boys might give them the once over.

One heartbreaker, dolled up like a divorce case queen, took off and put on her coat three different times during the evening's performance in order that the Jazz Kings could give her the once-over.

But the boys never gave her a tumble—but wait, Sheiks, she's on your trail and Dead Eye Dick has nothing on that Cleopatra.

The Royal Northwest boys always swear to get their man.

And she swears to get her men. But who will the first victim be? Two bits that she gets him within a week.

The bass player got here just in time for the dance. During a stopover in Chicago he floated a loan and made connections, but didn't get part of his horn.

Since then, however, he visited the plumbers and has had a piece of bath room pipe installed—in his horn—he doesn't carry a bathroom with him this trip.

And speaking of plumbers, we are surprised to hear that plumbers belong to the union.

We always understood that the union wanted its members to work eight hours per day.

Ed Shymanski reports, for the benefit of all tourists, that the road between this city and Granton is in very good condition.

In fact, he states, that it is in such good condition in some places that a daredevil could drive with one arm.

Ed's partner in crime, Leon Laramie, we understand, last night brought his new blonde friend around for the boys to get a good look at.

X X X

And all they got was a look.

He was so excited upon meeting her that he lost his summer's straw—but we won't tell where. Just ask him!

And so did we, but don't ask us.

FABER CHECKS YANKS; BROOKS WINS FOR CUBS

Washington—Cleveland took the third game of the series from Washington Sunday, 7 to 5, the Indians knocking Walter Johnson out of the box in the seventh inning. After driving in three runs with a double in that inning to put his team in the lead, Manager Speaker saved the game in the ninth by a spectacular catch in deep center with two men on.

New York—Faber pitched the White Sox to victory over the Yankees Sunday, allowing but nine hits, three of which were made by Earl Combs. This was the tenth time of the season that New York lost after winning two games in a row

Cincinnati—New York made it three out of four by nosing out Cincinnati, 4 to 3, here Sunday. A belated eighth inning rally, which netted two runs, brought the Reds within grasping distance of the game, but a single, a steal and an error had brought in the winning run in the Giants' half. Scott held the locals to one run during the first seven innings, while his teammates bunched hits off Luque for two runs in the second inning and one in the third.

Chicago—"Mandy" Brooks' home run, smashed in the ninth inning, with a man on base, gave Chicago a 3 to 2 victory over Philadelphia in the final game of the series Sunday. The game was a pitching duel between Jones and Decatur, the former permitting only three hits to his rival's five. Two passes at the start and an attempt to pass Henline gave Philadelphia their runs, as Henline reached out for a wide pitch and tripled to center.

St. Louis—The Boston Braves defeated the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, 7 to 3, in the fourth and final game of the series, the two clubs thus getting an even break. Walter Mails, who has been handicapped this year by a sore arm, pitched well until the fifth when he was batted out of the box and the visitors scored five runs.

Toledo—Toledo and Minneapolis broke even on the series when the Mudhens won the final game Sunday, 5 to 2. Jim Tunney, former Holy Cross star, held the Millers to five scattered hits. Hillis hit the first ball pitched by Harris over the fence for a home run in the first inning.

Columbus—Columbus got an even break in the St. Paul series by winning Sunday's game, 9 to 8, after it had been tied six different times. The Senators won out in the ninth session with one gone.

Indianapolis — Indianapolis and Kansas City divided a double-header here Sunday, the locals winning the first, 6 to 2, and the visitors the second, 3 to 2, in seven innings, the game being called on account of the Sunday 6 o'clock closing law. A rally in the sixth frame of the first game produced six runs for Indianapolis.

Louisville — Seventeen Brewers tried to win a ball game here Sunday afternoon and failed. Harry Clark called upon that number in the final half of Sunday's twin matinee. They tried their best but dropped the verdict in 11 innings, 10 to 9, after suffering a similar fate in the day's opener, 9 to 3.

Huskies, Navy Favored To Cop Regatta; Fear Badgers

Leads Huskies

MAX LUFT

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Along the slopping banks of the Hudson lies a mighty fleet of shells awaiting the word that will send them down the river in the colorful regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association late Monday afternoon.

From the far west, the middle west and the east they have come to compete in this greatest of struggles for supremacy on the water, and 50,000 spectators, assembled on the observation train, river craft and excursion boats, are expected to witness the classic battle between the varsity, junior varsity and freshman eights.

The last minute quotations in the most reliable markets find Washington, winner of the honors for the last two years, and the Navy even favorites to triumph in the varsity event. One bet of $250 to $1,000 was registered that the Huskies from the Pacific coast would win both the varsity and junior varsity honors, although Syracuse is generally favored in the jayvee two-mile struggle. Pennsylvania is picked to win the freshman race.

Fear Vail's Boat

Dad Vail's Wisconsin varsity is feared, more on account of the surprise showing it made last year, when, picked to finish last, it showed its rudder to all the boats of the east and in the last stretch was rapidly closing the gap which separated it from the winning Washington shell. But the 1925 Badger outfit has five men in it and hardly seems to possess the power of last year's eight. The Badger freshmen have not aroused much favorable comment here, but it is a strong, rangy boatload, and if the youngsters can mix their power with a smoother stroke they may make trouble for the others.

The minor races have their followers and a triumph in either the freshman or junior varsity events will bring honor and glory to the winning crew, but a varsity victory is the objective of every crew on the river. Only once before have as many as seven shells sought the laurel wreath in this event, and the battle for supremacy over the long four mile course promises to furnish the greatest sight in the history of rowing. No less than four crews are given a chance of leading the procession a mile below the railroad bridge, while the other three have possibilities, for anything may happen in a race.

Badgers Rest Sunday

The real struggle probably will be waged between Washington and the Navy, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, with Columbia, Syracuse and Cornell fighting a battle of their own some place in the rear.

Columbia and Pennsylvania took last-minute cruises Sunday morning.

Dad Vail took his men into the country to spend a peaceful and quiet Sabbath, resting before the battle.

The junior varsity race is the first on the program, with all the seven navies represented except the midshipmen from Annapolis and the Badgers from Wisconsin. Pennsylvania, Cornell, Washington, Columbia and Syracuse will get away from the starting mark, two miles above the bridge, at about 3 p. m., (central time) while 45 minutes later the freshmen eights for Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania will row over the same two-mile course.

The varsity event is scheduled to start at 4:45 (central time).

Billy Evans Say:

PIRATES ARE COMING

After a tremendous poor start equaled only by the getaways made by the Yankees and Tygers, the Pittsburg Pirates, during the last few weeks, have been prancing along at a remarkable gait.

In that stretch they have worked their way from a lowly second division berth to one right on the heels of the league Giants. And what is more they are still going strong.

Recently the McKechnie crew tossed quite a crimp into the McGraw team's aspirations by beating the Gothamites four times in a row. The quartet of triumphs placed the Pirates within a stone's throw of first place.

Last spring the experts were picking the Pittsburg outfit to be in the thick of the fight all the way. In training the club looked good. But it got off to a miserable start, just the reverse of what had been anticipated.

For a while it appeared like the team had been given the wrong 'once-over" in camp though failure of some of the star hurlers to round into form was greatly responsible for the poor beginning.

LIKE REAL CHALLENGERS

From the way the Smoky town gang has been playing of late, however, it looks like the one best bet to dethrone the Giants and keep them from hanging up a new major league record by bagging five successive pennants.

The McKechnie unit has been getting good hitting during the past few weeks and the hurlers have been delivering, too.

Yde, 1924 sensation, has apparently hit his real stride after floundering around in the early weeks of the chase and should prove a winner from now forward.

Wright, Cuyler and Moore, three star youngsters of last season, have been playing first-class ball in all departments and Grantham, obtained by the club in the triple trade with the Cubs last winter, has been doing some nice hitting and exceptional fielding at first, though out of position.

Since coming into their winning gait the team has been playing heads up ball, taking advantage of every opportunity possible. True the Pirates have been getting their share of the breaks. But a team when on a victorious rampage usually does.

Frankly, you can just about figure the Pirates as the Giants' toughest rival in the quest for the 1925 gonfalon.

ON SCORING SPREE

Those Philadelphia Athletics seem bent on hanging up a new record for scoring runs.

In two days the Macks counted 29 runs against Cleveland, scoring 17 one day after going into the eighth inning on the short end of a 15-4 count.

Figuring it more closely the team ran across 25 tallies in five consecutive innings. On the first day it scored a run in the sixth and seventh, 13 in the eighth and the following day shoved over 10 counters in the first two frames.

It certainly showed that the Macks have their old war clubs primed and ready to swing on offerings of opposing hurlers. Practically every regular on the team has been getting his share of safeties, too.

If the Macks stick to the clouting pace they have set of late they'll be a hard outfit to stop, indeed.

Northrup of Michigan Was Versatile Star

In Philip Northrup, Michigan has a most versatile athlete. He stars in the broad jump, javelin throw and pole vault.

At the recent Big Ten meet at Columbus, Northrup won the Greek event, tossing the stick for a new record. He also scored in the other two events.

Coach Steve Farrell of the Maize and Blue school rates Northrup one of the best all-round men he has had in some time, with the possible exception of Hubbard, the great colored ace.

When Capt. Brooker was declared ineligible early in the season, it looked as if Michigan would be without an even ordinary pole vaulter. But along came Northrup, who stepped into the leader's place and did well.

Northrup is only a sophomore. And ere he graduates bids fair to hang up a nifty reputation in track and field athletics. For with two more seasons of experience he should be able to better his present records by nice margins

CLUB LOSES AT POINT; WAUPACA WALLOPS FORDS

Mixing hits with errors the Soo Lines of Stevens Point battered the St. Lawrence club of this city into a 10-2 defeat at Stevens Point on Sunday afternoon. At Waupaca the Fords fell before the Waupaca city team by a score of 11-5, a combination of hits and errors proving to be the downfall of that aggregation.

At Stevens Point the locals scored one run in the first inning but in each the third and fourth innings the Soo Lines scored three times, following up this attack with four runs in the sixth. The Club scored its other run in the eighth inning.

Twelve errors were chalked up by the St. Lawrence club, Yeske, shortstop, being the chief offender with five errors. Frede made two errors, but atoned for the fielding slips with two nice bingles at bat.

The game at Waupaca was also a comedy of errors the Fords making 6 and the Waupaca team nine. Inability to sock the apple in the pinches brought about the Ford defeat. The Fords scored once in the first inning when Alpine led off with a bingle, was sacrificed to second by G. Fahrner and came home on a sacrifice hit. They scored in the third without the aid of a hit and also scored two more in the fifth with a single hit. Alpine scored three runs, scoring his first three times at bat.

Waupaca scored two in the first two in the third, two in the fifth, two in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. They pounded out nine hits off Cotterill while the best the Fords could do was gather three, G. Fahrner getting the other two hits aside from Alpine's hit which opened the game.

Ehmke Appears To Have Struck Winning Form

Howard Ehmke, star pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, seems to have hit his real stride again.

After being ill during the early weeks of the campaign, the slim boy returned to the game only to get away poorly. No doubt he wasn't in shape following his long siege with the doctors.

But in his last few starts, Ehmke has displayed the brand of hurling which he has long been noted for. Over a two weeks' stretch he turned in four straight victories for the lowest ranking team in the big leagues.

In most of them, too, he held the opposition to a few runs and hits. The other day he hooked up in a pitchers' battle with Robertson of the White Sox, winning 2 to 1, each gunner allowing but five safeties.

In his last two seasons Ehmke has been up near the top of the heap in the matter of triumphs, bagging 20 wins two years ago and 19 last season. That's pretty good hurling for a consistently poor team.

If the tall lad keeps up the pace he started he bids fair to even excel his 1923 and 1924 performances this campaign

Fish and Game

by Morris Ackerman

"PUTTING DOWN" FISH IN INDIAN FASHION

The Indian fishes, like he hunts, for food. With him a fish is a fish.

To see Redmen fishing for sport would be a novelty. They leave that to we dudes from the city. But they get their fins in time of plenty and put 'em down for lean days ahead.

The old-time method of putting down fish for the winter is somewhat a forgotten art.

However, the commercial fisherman on the coast doesn't waste many mackeral, codfish or herring. With a little effort you can be eating game and panfish of your own catch next winter.

The program isn't complicated and the result is entirely worth while. Split the fish down the middle. Remove the backbone by cutting along both sides from head to tail. Pull out the backbone with a pair of plyers. Remove the heads and clean thoroughly.

You can remove the scales or leave them on as fancy dictates. Prepare a heavy pickling brine. One that will float an egg. Put in the fish and be sure they are completely submerged. Let 'em soak in the submerged brine over night.

In the morning remove fish from the pickle and spread them out on rocks, boards or grass to dry. Leave them in the sun for about six hours. This drying out process keeps brine from forming after packing.

Place the fish in course salt in barrels or kegs. A layer of salt, a layer of fish, until container is full. Put plenty of salt over the top.

To be sure no brine forms in the barrel bore a hole near the bottom, so it will rain. Next winter when you want a nice "fresh" trout, bass or musky go to the salt barrel, pick out a choice fish, soak over night in a pan of cold water—and, oh, man—some breakfast!

You can just shut your eyes and live that ol' fishing trip over again.

Auburndale Scores Sixth Straight Win

The undefeated Auburndale team won its sixth straight game of the season Sunday by defeating Pittsville 6-2. Harbath pitched a good game for the winners, allowing only 5 hits and striking out 11. Poor support in the early innings prevented him from scoring a shut out. Domke, Pittsville pitcher, allowed 10 hits and struck out 6. Bernhagen led the attack for Auburndale with three hits, while Skibbe was credited with 2. The next home game for Auburndale will be played with the Chili team July 12. Why not motor insurance?

WHY is it that we go to any length to insure our cars against the unknown hazards of fire, theft, property damage, etc., and leave the greatest hazard of all, to the tender mercy of some one else's judgment? "Wear" or friction in the motor is the great known factor in depreciation. A 50,000 mile car will burn out in 10,000 miles without proper and constant lubrication.

That is one hazard you can guard against yourself, for buying the correct oil is literally motor insurance against pitted valves, scored cylinders, caked piston heads and all the ailments that follow the use of ordinary dirt and acid laden oil.

In the IVALINE group of 6 grades or "weights" of oil is the one correct lubricant for your car, a clean, safe oil that spreads its protecting film swiftly and surely over every working part.

Find out what grade to use by consulting the IVALINE Guide (or Chart) To Correct Lubrication that is displayed wherever IVALINE oils and greases are sold. In this chart the IVALINE Staff of Lubricating Engineers has indicated the proper oil for every make of car—based on piston clearances and working temperatures. The old guess work is all done away with.

Use IVALINE Motor Oil in the grade indicated and insure your engine for its full lifetime of use.

Insist on IVALINE—from your dealer—from the nearest POMIAC Service Station or from the Winona Oil Company truck that supplies your district.

Look for the POMIAC SERVICE STATION arrow sign

"COME CLEAN"

At the Palace Theatre Tonight

"Come Clean" is the title of a convincing pictorial story now showing at the New Palace Theatre, picturizing for the first time the latest scientific way of keeping your wearing apparel fresh and new. It shows, in actual operation, Normington's New RUNNING STREAM SYSTEM of cleaning clothes. This picture proves beyond all doubt that dirty clothes wear out much faster than clean garments, it also proves there is only one good mehod of cleaning clothes.

What Is The Running Stream System Of Cleaning?

It is the latest development in the cleaning industry—with this new method clean, filtered gasoline constantly flows through your clothes in the cleaning tubs from the top and the dirty gasoline is continually being drawn out of the tubs at the bottom and into the clarifier where all dirt and grime is removed before it flows through the clothes again.

This system of cleaning clothes is the only method known whereby your garments are cleaned entirely free from all dirt and grime.

We want you to see this picture at the Palace this week, then come here and see the machine in operation and see for yourself the large amount of dirt removed from clothes each day.

ALFALFA TOURS REVEAL SUCCESS

VISITS TO FIELDS IN ALL SECTIONS OF WOOD COUNTY ARRANGED BY COUNTY AGENT PETERSON

Wood county farmers are having he opportunity this week of seeing with their own eyes the results which alfalfa will produce on a wide variety of soils and under widely different conditions. A series of tours have been arranged by P. A. Peterson, county agricultural agent, covering almost every section of the county, on which scores of alfalfa fields will be visited, the results noted and the methods studied.

Believing that alfalfa is of interest and importance to city business men as well as to farmers, Mr. Peterson has also arranged a special tour for Thursday evening of this week, which will take a group of Wisconsin Rapids merchants and business men through the light soil area in the southeastern part of the county to see what alfalfa is doing in this section.

Visit Rudolph Farms

The first of the farm tours was held Friday afternoon. The trip was made by 30 town of Rudolph farmers, who visited three alfalfa fields in Rudolph and in the neighboring town of Carson, Portage county. Alfalfa was found in excellent condition on the farms of William Piltz, C. H. Imig and Joe Van de Loop. Of special interest was a three-acre field belonging to Mr. Piltz, seeded last year, which promises to yield fully two tons to the acre the first cutting, which will be made soon. Mr. Piltz used lime sludge to his land at the rate of 2 tons to the acre, except for a small section of the field. The alfalfa is producing excellent results where the lime was applied, but is practically a total failure on the unlimed section of the field. Besides the farms visited, it is stated by Mr. Peterson, alfalfa is doing well on the farms of Charles Jensen, J. J. Becker, and others in the town of Rudolph.

Succeeds on New Land

Saturday, a tour was conducted in the town of Cary, in which about 40 farmers participated. Visits were made to the farms of Dan Rogers, George H. Smith, F. H. Meyers, and George Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds, who has over four acres of alfalfa on the top of Cary Bluff, is one of the few Wood county farmers who has been successful with alfalfa without using lime. It was pointed out by Mr. Peterson, however, that this was to be explained by the fact that his planting was on newly cleared land that had been burned over a number of times, so that the usual lime deficiency was made up by the wood ashes.

Schedule For Week

Similar tours are being held today in the towns of Auburndale and Marshfield. The schedule for the rest of the week follows:

Tuesday morning: Richfield and Cameron townships.

Tuesday afternoon: Town of Lincoln.

Wednesday at 9:30 a. m.: Meet at Seneca Corners for tour of town of Hansen.

Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.: Meet at Dairyman's State bank, Arpin for tour of Arpin township.

Thursday at 9:30 a. m.: Meet at Huser Brothers' farm for tour of Altdorf district.

Thursday at 1:30 p. m.: Meet at Blenker for tour of Sherry and Milladore districts.

Thursday evening: Tour of light soil district by Wisconsin Rapids business men.

Friday morning: Eastern part of Saratoga township.

Friday afternoon: Town of Sigel.

Friday at 7:30 p. m.: Meet at Munroe's store for tour of Kellner district.

Saturday at 9:30 a. m.: Meet at Robert Guildenzoph farm for tour of Port Edwards township.

Dairy Markets Quiet Last Week Butter Declines

Madison, Wis., June 22.—Butter, cheese and egg markets were quiet this week, the Wisconsin department of markets reported today.

Prices on some butter markets declined one half cent on all grades at the close. Arrivals were reported fairly heavy. Supplies of medium and undergrades were plentiful and hard to sell. Centralized car market at the close of the week was weak with practically no trade at the ½ cent decline.

Cheese buyers were purchasing only for immediate needs and were a king liberal concessions, but most dealers were unwilling to make further concessions since prices are very close to replacement costs.

The market on eggs was easy. The quality of arrivals showed the effects of recent hot weather. Trade was a little quiet, buyers not purchasing beyond these immediate requirements.

The swine trade was characterized by a much healthier undertone than has been noted for some time and by a gradual strengthening in values. The general upturns scored were sufficient to lift values to the highest levels for more than five weeks and to carry the top above the $13 line.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN AND HUNTLEY GORDON AT IDEAL

If you enjoy virile red-blooded romance on the screen by all means see "Daring Love," a vivid adaptation of Albert Payson Terkune's well known novel "Driftwood," showing for the last time at The Ideal tonight. Elaine Hammerstein, a local favorite ever since her debut a few years ago in "Our Country Cousin," is the bright particular star and her leading man is handsome Huntley Gordon. This is the first time Miss Hammerstein has essayed this type of role. In "Daring Love," she enacts the role of a cafe entertainer of the demi-mondaine and does it exceedingly well. Huntley Gordon is the "down-and-outer," who, learning of his wife's (Gertrude Astor) love for another, drifts into the cafe to forget. It is an adventurous tale well told on the screen and well worth looking at. With it is shown for the first time in Wisconsin Rapids one of those irresistibly funny Van Bibber comedies, "The Race," Richard Harding Davis created "Van Bibber" and this whimsical character is without question one of the screen's best fun bets. Music by the Wisconsin Rapids Quintette. On Tuesday and Wednesday, a special presentation of Norman Dawn's, "The Lure of The Yukon" will be the attraction, shown with a News and an Earl Hurd comedy. Several local people who have enjoyed this picture in the larger cities state that it is a most unordinarily realistic romance of the Yukon gold rush with Eva Novak and Spottiswood Aitken heading a fine cast. A tremendous herd of reindeer adds to the realism and with its rugged northern setting and its ice and snow, it makes a very entertaining summer attraction. On next Sunday Gloria Swanson comes in her latest Paramount creation "Madame Sans Gene," the making of which picture in France led to her marriage with the Marquis.
